THE CALL OF NEPAL:

The remarkable life of Lieutenant Colonel John P Cross OBE

At 101, Lieutenant Colonel John Cross OBE is one of the last living witnesses to a century of conflict, and the embodiment of the extraordinary bond between Britain and the Gurkhas, the legendary hill warriors of Nepal. From Burma in the Second World War to Malaya, Borneo and Laos, his remarkable life bears witness to a century shaped by war.

The Call of Nepal is a film project that urgently requires donations to complete. It will capture not only the soldier, but also the warmth, wit and hard-won philosophy of a man universally known as "J P Cross Baje" or "grandfather". To be filmed intimately at his home in Nepal, we have a precious and rapidly narrowing window to record John's story in his own voice.

Without your support, this unique opportunity could be lost forever. Your donation will help make this film possible, preserving for future generations the story of an exceptional man, the Gurkhas he served alongside, and a world now passing from living memory. Together, we can ensure that John's remarkable legacy, and the enduring friendship between Britain and Nepal, is not only remembered, but shared for generations to come.
